

Other Undergraduate Courses. E S L 110W is often required of transfer students who have completed ENGL 1 or its equivalent and 56 units of coursework.

Courses Taken in Graduate Standing. An entering graduate student whose previous education has been in a language other than English is held to similar standards of English proficiency as are undergraduate students and may be required to enroll in the following undergraduate courses (such as E S L 110W). English proficiency is based on performance on the UEE.

COURSES

English as a Second Language (E S L)

Newly arrived international students are placed into or exempted from E S L classes based on their University English Exam (UEE) scores.

20. Intermediate English as a Second Language (3)

Emphasizes the development of reading skills and multi-paragraph essays, beginning with personal writing then moving toward the more objective nature of academic prose. Relevant areas of grammar are selected based on student errors and the nature of the written essay.

21. Advanced Oral Practice in American English (3)

Advanced work on stress, rhythm, and intonation. Practice in listening comprehension. Speech styles: formal vs. informal. Speech organization and delivery.

30. Advanced English as a Second Language (3)

An introduction to reading based on academic writing and the advanced E S L writing skills required for academic exposition, argumentation, and research papers. Areas of English grammar important to non-native speakers are taught based on problems in student compositions.

110W. Advanced Composition for Foreign Students (3)

Prerequisite: satisfactory completion (C or better) of the ENGL 1 graduation requirement, to be taken no sooner than the term in which 60 units of coursework are completed. Review of selected points of English usage. Conventions of writing formal research reports. Writing of short essays. Practice in paraphrasing and summarizing. Writing complex sentences in concise form. Meets the upper-division writing skills requirement for graduation.

International Studies Course (I S C)

93. Contemporary American Society (1)

Introduction to contemporary American society to familiarize the student with political and social issues and ideological conflicts. (2 seminar hours)

CSU International Programs

Developing intercultural communication skills and international understanding among its students is a vital mission of the California State University (CSU). Since its inception in 1963, the CSU International Programs has contributed to this effort by providing qualified students an affordable opportunity to continue their studies abroad for a full academic year. More than 12,000 CSU students have taken advantage of this unique study option.

International Programs participants earn resident academic credit at their CSU campuses while they pursue full-time study at a host university or special study center abroad. The International Programs serves the needs of students in over 100 designated academic majors. Affiliated with more than 70 recognized universities and institutions of higher education in 16 countries, the International Programs also offers a wide selection of study locales and learning environments.

The affiliated institutions are the University of Western Sydney (Australia); the universities of the Province of Quebec (Canada); Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, Santiago (Chile); the University of Copenhagen (Denmark) through Denmark's International Study Program; the University of Marseille, the University of Law, Economy, and Sciences, the University of Paris, the Institute of French Studies for Foreign Students, the Institute of Oriental Languages and Civilizations, and Evry (France); the University of Tübingen and a number of institutions of higher education in the federal state of Baden-Württemberg (Germany); the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and Tel Aviv University (Israel); the University of Florence (Italy); Waseda University (Tokyo, Japan); Yonsei University (Seoul, Korea); Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey, Campus Querétaro (Mexico City, Mexico); Massey University and Lincoln University (New Zealand); the universities of Granada and Madrid (Spain); Uppsala Universitet (Sweden); National Chengchi University (Taipei, Taiwan); Bradford, Bristol, Hull, Kingston, and Sheffield universities and the University of Wales, Swansea (the United Kingdom); and the University of Zimbabwe (Harare).

International Programs pays all tuition and administrative costs for participating California resident students to the same extent that such funds would be expended to support similar costs in California. Participants are responsible for all personal costs, such as transportation, room and board, living expenses, and home campus fees. Participants remain eligible to receive any form of financial aid (except work-study) for which they can individually qualify.

To qualify for admission to the International Programs, students must have upper-division or graduate standing at a CSU campus by the time of departure. Students at the sophomore level may, however, participate in the intensive language acquisition programs in France, Germany, and Mexico. California Community Colleges transfer students are eligible to apply directly from their community colleges. Students must also possess a current cumulative grade point average of 2.75 or 3.0, depending on the program for which they apply. Some programs also have language study and/or other coursework prerequisites.

Obtain information and application materials from the International Programs Office, Family and Food Sciences Building, Room 111 or call (559) 278-6452. Or write to the California State University International Programs, 401 Golden Shore, Sixth Floor, Long Beach, CA 90802-4210. Visit us on the World Wide Web at www.gateway.calstate.edu/csuienett/. Applications must be submitted by February 1 for the next academic year overseas.

COURSES

Fresno State students under The California State University International Programs register concurrently on campus and at the host institution abroad, with credit assigned in terms of Fresno State courses. Undergraduate students who find appropriate study opportunities at the host institution but no local counterpart course may use Independent Study 190, and International Studies Abroad 92 or 192. Graduate students may use Independent Study 290 and International Studies Abroad 292.
