I've found what I am, what I'm best at, what is the unnamed absoluteness of my life - that is : Vince. It is peculiar that it is in the form of a man; past thought conceived nor considered such.

In such realization there is such satisfaction just being with, doing by him, free to do what I want, to feel my own involvement with daily doings. And all about with or without him I've his love - for we are free to feel one another.

In feeling this way nothing is beyond reach, nothing is unconquerable. I will now go ahead and get my flying license, I'm going to swim, and I'm going to finish those 32 units. As for the family - I'll help and give as much as is possible and at the same time know I can not perfect all - thus what ever transpires is life and I've no right to think or worry about carrying the problems on my shoulders - as Herb said - "just being and listening and you are an unreplacable asset to your mom and the kids."

They will carry on.

And Dunc has my respect and devotion - for he cares.

And Vince - it is now my life to be with you to just be.
